

HORACE W. CLARK PASSES THROUGH

New General Manager of Rio Grande Is on Inspection Tour.

SPECIAL ONLY MAKES SHORT STOP IN ZION

Officials, However, Expect to Return to Salt Lake City Today.

A special train of four private cars and one coach for a bumper, carrying Horace W. Clark, the new general manager of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, and party, pulled into Salt Lake at 9:45 o'clock Wednesday night, remained only long enough to receive orders, and then pulled out for Ogden. All the prominent officials aboard had been in bed an hour, and, except one or two stray nightbirds, who were along to look after the comfort and safety of those higher up, every one on the special was asleep.

The special is expected to leave Ogden early this morning, so that the officials can inspect the track by daylight, and will probably arrive in Salt Lake again about 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning. How long the gentlemen will remain in this city is not known, even by themselves, so certain railroad officials said Wednesday night, but the time will not be over two or three hours. A quick run to Bingham and back will be made to inspect the road, after which the special will in all probability pull out for the east en route, probably by noon.

The party is following no regular schedule, but running to suit the convenience of the officials on board, as the requirements of each hour may bring forth.

Among the prominent railroad men on board are General Manager Horace W. Clark, First Vice President Charles H. Schlacks, General Superintendent of Colorado Lines W. S. Martin, General Counsel J. F. Valle, and General Superintendent of Utah Lines J. C. Dailey, all of the Denver & Rio Grande. According to the trainmen, Major S. K. Hooper, general passenger agent, was not on board.

T. DeWitt Cuyler, of Philadelphia, was elected a director in place of the late H. H. Rogers. Mr. Cuyler is also a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Claim for Damages.

Sarah A. Hess has filed a claim for $2000 damages against the city with the city recorder. Mrs. Hess says that her property at 345 West Seventy North street has been damaged by the city in the street grade in front of the premises.

In the change in grade the front doors and windows were entirely closed up and she was forced to abandon the property for rooming house purposes, by reason of which she has already lost $1000, she claims.
